Summer vacation has begun and Mats is just an ordinary kid like any other. But when he finds a pair of pants that contain an unlimited amount of money, everything changes! Suddenly, the world is at his feet and Mats can fulfill all his dreams.

Once he realizes, however, that he has been abusing the power that comes with unlimited wealth, he instead starts using the money to improve the lives of the city's homeless, and less fortunate.

Meanwhile, powerful forces have long been searching for the legendary golden pants, and once they track them down, Mats's dad, Torkel, gets kidnapped. And when it turns out that the money he keeps pulling out of his pants pocket actually comes from various bank vaults around the country, Mats has the police after him, too. With no one to help him other than his trusty friends David and Livli, Mats has to save his father and put everything right before it's too late.

The Boy with the Golden Pants is a classic adventure film based on the international bestseller by Max Lundgren.

DIRECTOR - ELLA LEMHAGEN

Ella Lemhagen, born in 1965, made her feature film debut in 1996 with the critically acclaimed comedy "The Prince of Dreams", which earned her a Guldbagge nomination for Best Director and Best Cinematography. Ella has since directed and screenwritten several box office hits such as "Patrik 1.5" (2008) and most recently "The Crown Jewels" (2011) among others.

"I did not hesitate one bit when I was asked if I wanted to be involved in the project of turning the classic "The Boy with the Golden Pants" into a modern adventure film. The boy with the golden pants was a personal favorite of mine when I grew up, and has everything I as a director look for in a script. It is dramatic, magical and timeless, and also brings up interesting moral issues, which in many ways feels even more relevant today than when the story was first created. What is money? Can you buy happiness? And do you have a responsibility to help others?"
