A windy autumn day the body of the university student Lisa Beck is found in a small lake on top of the Tromsø Island. It puzzles the police and the investigator Aslak Eira, of Sami heritage, that she has not drowned. To enhance the confusion, the body carries traces of having been in the sea.

As the police seem to be fumbling along in the dark, yet another young female student disappears. The struggle to save this student's life and to reveal the identity of the murderer becomes a race against time.

And for Aslak it becomes a matter of life and death as his 16 years old son is dragged into the events.

DIRECTOR - NILS GAUP

Nils Gaup, born in 1955, graduated as an actor from The Norwegian Theatre Academy in 1978. In addition to acting, Gaup is a playwright and a screenwriter, and after spending several years writing the script and preparing the film, Gaup's directing debut PATHFINDER finally premiered in 1987. The film received widespread critical acclaim, and became one of Norwegian cinema's greatest box-office successes, in addition to winning several awards - including the Norwegian International Film Festival's Amanda Award for Best Film - as well as an Academy Award nomination for Best Foreign Language Film in 1988.

Since then, Gaup has had a steady output in both film and television with titles such as SHIPWRECKED (1990), co-produced by Walt Disney Pictures, HEAD ABOVE WATER (1993), which garnered Gaup his second Amanda Award for Best Film, NORTH STAR (1996), MISERY HARBOUR (1999), NINI (1998, TV series) and DEADLINE TORP (2005) and THE KAUTOKEINO REBELLION (2008). This film was yet another hit for Gaup among critics and audiences, winning four Amandas, among other awards.
